Awaken your creativity skills!

Draw your last dream, play with colours until you find the shade you are looking for, relax lying on the grass and sketch the craziest shapes of clouds, combine fill patterns to paint the skin of a crocodile, a turtle or a zebra, make up all sorts of crazy haircuts, experiment and draw with a chocolate bar, paint a David Hockney-style pool, colour the shadows of the Red Wall from architect Ricardo Bofill and design a mural to feel like an urban artist.

In this book you will find that and much more.

Perrine Honoré is an illustrator and muralist based in Barcelona. She studied Fashion Design in Sweden, Graphic Design in Paris and Design and Communication in Barcelona. She works in several fields such as art direction, urban art, creation of textile prints, event posters, branding, jewellery or ceramics.

Where she feels more comfortable is in the illustration field because it gives her more freedom to express herself and allows her to empty her thoughts. She finds her inspiration in contemporary artists and designers, as well as in art history and everyday life. The author builds a critical, funny and spontaneous universe through a festive and colourful aesthetic. She encourages children to experiment with graphic storytelling, to illustrate events and express their ideas. The artist helps them to decide textures and how to combine colours, lights and shadows, shapes and contents.

At present, she is a much sought-after artist for the creation of wall murals in unique buildings. This book is her first foray in the publishing world and projects her experience on printed pages.
